ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A microprocessor for processing a large quantity of graphics data. The microprocessor independent of a CPU has two ports, and performs an instruction fetch and a data access or a memory access simultaneously to two memories mounted on separate buses. A graphics processing apparatus provided by the microprocessor transfers graphics data between a system memory and a frame memory at high speeds.